NEW FEDERAL JUDGESHIP POST STILL VACANT

March Brings Winter's Worst Storm to Europe

AREA EXTENDS FROM RUSSIA TO CENTRAL ITALY

SNOW COVERS MOST OF THE BRITISH ISLES AND HALF OF FRANCE

RAILROADS BLOCKED IN DENMARK AND RUSSIA—20 FISHING SHIPS MISSING

Paris, Mar. 2.—(UP)—March brought the winter's worst storm to Europe today. An area extending from Russia to central Italy was whipped by snow, wind and rain.

Snow covered most of the British Isles and half of France. Many mountain villages were isolated. According to reports received here, two-thirds of Italy was in the grip of the storm.

Railroads were blocked in Denmark and Russia and trains were delayed in Germany, Holland, Belgium and France.

Twenty fishing ships were reported missing in the North sea and the English channel.

The entire crew of 16 aboard a Dutch fishing trawler was believed drowned off Rosehearty, Aberdeen-shire, Scotland. The trawler was seen wallowing, bottom up, in tremendous seas. Assistance was impossible although the ship was not far from shore. One body was washed up on the beach.

Violent gales in the Irish sea and the English channel handicapped continental steamers and kept smaller boats in port. The gale reached 70 miles an hour in the Irish sea. Heavy snow storms were general in the British Isles. Four inches of snow was recorded in many parts of the London area.

MARCH BRINGS BALMY AIR TO MINNESOTA

St. Paul, Minn., March 2.—(UP)—March, coming into Minnesota and the Northwest like a frisky ram, brought clear skies and comparatively balmy temperatures today.

"More of the same," was the weather forecast, indicating that March's disposition will not become comparable to that of a lion for some time at least.

Among the temperatures reported today were St. Paul, 18; Duluth, 16; Moorhead, 20; Devils Lake, N. D., 24; Williston, N. D., 30; Huron, S. D., 20; LaCrosse, Wis., 20, and Charles City, Ia., 20.

The forecast was "generally fair to night and Tuesday; slightly warmer in southeast and east portions tonight and colder in northwest portion tonight."

Bitting winds and temperatures around the freezing mark, with snows in scattered sections of the Rocky Mountain states, gave the western half of the country a March 1 holiday that was not unpleasant except in contrast to the balmy days that had gone before.

In Chicago, the temperature dropped to 29 last night, not considered low as March first go, but low in contrast to most of the January and February days when by all the laws of precedent it was supposed to be cold, but wasn't.

JURY DISMISSED IN MAAS CASE

COUNTY ATTORNEY GOFF OF MINNEAPOLIS TO SEEK NEW TRIAL

Minneapolis, Minn., March 2.—(UP)—Unsuccessful in reaching a verdict after more than two days deliberations, the jury considering the case against Patrolman Mathias Maas on a murder charge was dismissed yesterday.

County Attorney Ed. Goff today said he would seek a new trial this week on the charges arising from the slaying of George M. Cairns during an argument. Cairns was shot six times.

When the jurors reported they were unable to reach a verdict after reportedly taking 13 ballots, Judge W. W. Bardwell in district court dismissed them.

Defense Attorney Fred A. Ossanna said he was investigating intimations that members of the jury had been "tampered" with as charged by the county attorney's office.

Two women members of the jury had to be supported as they walked from the court room after being dismissed. Five women were on the jury.

Ordered to Refrain Pressing Divorce Decree

Washington, March 2.—(UP)—The District of Columbia supreme court today ordered Edward B. McLean, wealthy publisher of Washington and Cincinnati, to refrain from pressing a divorce proceeding he had instituted against his wife at Cuernavaca, Mexico.

NAME 'YALE' BANNED FROM THE HARVARD DORMITORY LOCKS

Cambridge, Mass., March 2.—(UP)—The name "Yale" has been banned from Harvard dormitory locks, but merely for artistic reasons, university authorities insisted today.

They pointed out that Lowell and Dunster houses, new dormitories built under the Harvard house plan, were faithful examples of colonial architecture, and that anything as commercial as a trademark would detract from the general effect.

Thus, when thousands of Yale locks were ordered for use in the new dormitories, a clause was inserted in the contract providing that the trade name should not appear on the locks.

NEW PROVISIONAL REGIME IS NOW RULING IN PERU

SUCCEEDS MILITARY JUNTA OF LIEUT. COL. LUIS T. SANCHEZ CERRO

HIS RESIGNATION YESTERDAY ENDED THREAT OF IMMEDIATE CIVIL WAR

Lima, Peru, March 2.—(UP)—A new provisional government ruled Peru today in place of the military junta of Lieut. Col. Luis F. Sanchez Cerro, whose resignation yesterday ended the immediate threat of a civil war.

Intervention of the navy on the side of revolutionists who have been demanding the retirement of the military leader forced him to yield, and Ricardo Leoncio Elias, chief justice of the supreme court, was sworn in as head of the new government.

The navy issued a manifesto revealing that some 2,000 troops aboard transports, believed enroute to southern Peru to attack rebels at Arequipa, Cuzco, and Puno, had never gone outside Callao harbor. The cruisers Grau prevented the departure of the transports after they had sailed away with Sanchez Cerro's blessing. They go out of sight behind San Lorenzo Island, but no further.

Sanchez Cerro was left in Lima with only one regiment of regular troops and the city police force. With reinforcements on both sides of the capital and most of the loyal army anchored in Callao bay, the provisional president had no choice but to resign.

YOUTH SLAIN IN MINNEAPOLIS NOT IN NEED OF FUNDS

Minneapolis, March 2.—(UP)—Authorities said today that Le Roy Martin, 26, who was killed Saturday night while attempting to hold up a loan company office apparently was a scrupulous, industrious youth and not in need of funds.

Martin wounded two policemen who surprised him during the robbery. He fell dead in the street before the loan office with six bullet wounds. Both of the policemen were practically recovered today.

After his marriage four years ago, Martin had moved to Minneapolis from Eden Valley, Minn. He had been employed as a substitute in the Minneapolis postoffice.

PREPAREDNESS OF REX WRIGHT PROVES TO BE ALL WRONG

Chicago, March 2.—(UP)—Rex Wright believes in preparedness against holdup, especially when the first of the month comes on Sunday.

He always carries a $500 check (it's a trick) and a fountain pen that contains tear gas instead of ink.

Two men held up Wright and his wife Sunday in their rooming house. Wright was prepared as usual.

First, he handed the bandits the $500 check. He explained he had just taken the first of the month rent receipts to a friend, who put the money in a safe and gave the check as security.

"Now I'll endorse the check and you take it to my friend and he'll give you the money," said Wright, drawing the "fountain pen."

He pressed a button and instantly the room was filled with gas. Everybody, including himself, began to cough and cry.

It was as bad for one as the other, so the weeping bandits took Mrs. Wright's jewelry, $400 worth, tied her and Wright to chairs, locked them in the gas-filled room and left them to weep and talk about Wright's preparedness ideas until help arrived.

Mrs. Wright, it is understood, did most of the talking.

North and East Coasts of Viti Levu Island of the Fiji Group Swept by Third Hurricane

BRINGS RAINFALL OF OVER 100 INCHES, DEATH TOLL MOUNT

REPEATED FLOODS HAMPER RELIEF WORK IN STRICKEN AREAS

THOUSANDS MADE HOMELESS BY DESTRUCTION OF THEIR DWELLINGS

Suva, Fiji Islands, March 2.—(UP)—The north and east coasts of Viti Levu Island, largest of the Fiji group, were swept today by the third hurricane within less than two weeks.

The hurricane, fully as severe as the two which preceded it, brought rainfall for the period to more than 100 inches and added to the devastation throughout the islands.

Except that the death toll of the hurricanes has mounted above 100, little was known of the extent of damage from the latest disaster.

Repeated floods resulted from heavy rains, hampering relief work in the stricken districts. Vessels with food and medical supplies were sent from Suva to the interior, where thousands were made homeless by the destruction of their dwellings.

Destruction of crops, including American pineapple fields, was practically complete.

PAPER COMPANY IN RECEIVERSHIP

MINNESOTA & ONTARIO PAPER CO. CONTINUES OPERATIONS UNDER E. W. BACKUS

Minneapolis, Minn., March 2.—(UP)—The Minnesota and Ontario Paper company, one of the world's greatest producers of news print paper, continued operation today despite the fact that it had gone into voluntary receivership.

E. W. Backus, who left college because of poverty and then became one of the nation's millionaire lumbermen, returned here from a visit in New York to assume personal direction of the firm.

"The firm is solvent and its assets far exceed its liabilities," said a statement issued by attorneys for Minnesota and Ontario. "Receivership was asked because the company is unable to meet obligations maturing today."

The attorneys said the receivership was considered desirable to conserve the interests of creditors and stockholders. They said that the company's operation will not be reduced.

Federal Judge Joseph Molineux granted the receivership and named as receivers Backus, Edwin W. Decker and Charles R. Fowler. The receivership was technically asked by the Wirt Wilson company on a minor claim.

Backus entered the lumber business as a clerk in 1882. Within 20 years he became associated with W. S. Brooks and the two capitalists assumed control of more than 50 pulp mills, together with power plants, timber tracts, paper companies and a railroad.

Most of Backus-Brooks' holdings are in northern Minnesota. The Minnesota and Ontario company is at International Falls, Minn., on the Canadian border.

Backus issued a statement saying that the company's values exceed by "tens of millions" its outstanding debts. He said the 5,000 employees of the firm will keep their jobs.

It was pointed out that the Minnesota and Ontario is only one of 17 subsidiary corporations controlled by Backus-Brooks and that none of the other companies are involved.

"Chaotic conditions in the newsprint industry and in general business were responsible for the receivership," Backus' statement said. "They made it impossible for the company to meet obligations maturing March 1."

AIR INCIDENTS IN BENNETT FAMILY LIFE

Kansas City, Mo., March 2.—(UP)—John G. Bennett, wealthy perfume salesman, was pictured today as a quarrelsome, violent tempered man by defense witnesses at the trial of his wife, Mrs. Myrtle Bennett, on charges of murdering him.

Numerous incidents in the Bennett family life were aired before the jury to build up the defense claim that self defense was the motive for the killing. The prosecution contends Mrs. Bennett shot her husband in a fit of anger after a quarrel over a bridge game.

Mill Strike Victim

Miss Alberta Bachman, 20, of Stroudsburg, Pa., was shot and killed during the rioting of the striking employees of the hosiery mills. Another girl and man were seriously injured and are being held as material witnesses to the fatal shooting.

BOARD OF CONTROL MEASURE PASSED

APPROPRIATES $10,756,000 FOR EXPENDITURES IN NEXT 2 YEARS

St. Paul, Minn., March 2.—(UP)—The state senate today passed the Board of Control Bill, appropriating $10,756,000 for state expenditures during the next two years.

The measure passed today is the House bill, amended and increased by $27,000. The bill now goes back to the house, and probably will be sent to conference for discussion.

Chief changes from the House measure are the addition of $91,800 for a nurses' home at the Gillette hospital for crippled children, St. Paul; $80,000 for a gymnasium at Faribault; addition of $115,000 for care of children unsuitable for adoption. The senate reduced the soldiers' welfare fund from $20,000 to $10,000.

Total of the House bill was $10,729,000. The senate reduced several smaller items.

Revision of Insurance Rates by the Modern Woodmen is Upheld

Washington, March 2.—(UP)—The revision of insurance rates in 1929 by the Modern Woodmen of America which aroused a storm of protests among a million of its members, was upheld by the supreme court today when it dismissed an appeal involving the validity of the Illinois statute under which the change was made.

Titled Englishwoman on Trial

The sensation of the hour in France is the trial of Lady Owen, widow of an English baronet, at Versailles. She is charged with the attempted murder of Mme. Gastaud, wife of a French physician who, Lady Owen says, payed her marked attention and went so far as to promise that he would divorce Mme. Gastaud and marry her. His failure to keep that promise was the cause of the shooting. Lady Owen is shown above in court guarded by a smiling gendarme.

DROUGHT FARMERS TO CLAIM THEIR AID THIS WEEK

THOUSANDS OF APPLICATIONS FOR FOOD LOANS UNDER $20,000,000 APPROPRIATION

ARMY OF FARMERS MOBILIZING IN 21 STATES TO BORROW MONEY

Washington, March 2.—(UP)—Arrangements were complete today for handling the army of drought-affected farmers who this week will follow world war veterans in seeking government loans.

By nightfall, the agricultural department expect to have received thousands of applications for food loans under the $20,000,000 appropriation approved two weeks ago by President Hoover.

Ten thousand loan application blanks were being sent to offices at Memphis, St. Louis and Grand Forks, N. D., which will disburse the loans.

The army of hungry farmers is mobilizing in 21 states to borrow federal money with which to buy food, clothing and medicine. As collateral, they must give a first lien on their crops, as in the case of loans under the $45,000,000 drought relief appropriation.

Two classes of loans will be made: 1. Loans to individuals for creation or expansion of capital structure of agricultural and livestock credit corporations in local communities. 2. Loans for the "rehabilitation of agriculture."

The latter is the phraseology included in the bill at the insistence of President Hoover, who feared any loans other than those under the $45,000,000 seed, feed and fertilizer fund would be mistaken as "doles."

EDNA MAE COOPER ILL. STAYING AT HOME OF FRIENDS

Los Angeles, March 2.—(UP)—Edna Mae Cooper, prominent woman aviator who has been missing nearly a week, is ill and staying at the home of friends today, according to a mysterious telephone message received by the girl's mother, Mrs. Mary Cooper. A man who refused to tell his name informed Mrs. Cooper by telephone. Police reported that the man stated that he knew both Mrs. Cooper and her daughter in Pennsylvania years ago and that Miss Cooper was staying at his home here.

"My wife and I live alone and have Edna Mae with us," the man said. "She is very sick and recovering slowly. She lapsed into unconsciousness shortly after coming to us. Overwork and worry is her trouble. Don't worry about expenses. We will keep her with us until she is able to get on her feet again."

NAVAL ACCORD TO STOP RACE IN SHIP BUILDING

AGREEMENT IS REACHED BETWEEN FRANCE, ITALY AND GREAT BRITAIN

PACT CROWNS A YEAR OF ACrimonious DISCUSSIONS

Paris, Mar. 2.—(UP)—The naval accord reached between France, Italy and Great Britain regulating construction until 1936 and avoiding a building race between France and Italy was approved today by the council of ministers.

The accord will be submitted to parliament as soon as the United States and Japan adhere to the clause limiting the construction of future warships to 25,000 tons or less.

The agreement crowned a year of acrimonious negotiations dominated by the possibility that France and Italy would begin a building race which would force England to increase her naval forces under the "escalator clause" of the London treaty. This clause made it possible for Britain, the United States or Japan to resume building if any of the three signatories to the full treaty considered its position threatened by the naval program of other powers.

Foreign Minister Aristide Briand announced that the terms of the tripartite agreement would not be revealed for several days, as England wishes to confer with her dominions before signing.

British and French officials declined to comment on the terms of the agreement, but the United Press learned from an excellent source that French naval superiority over Italy was reduced from 240,000 tons to 190,000 tons, most of the reduction coming from projected submarines and super-submarines.

It was agreed that the battleship tonnage allotted at the Washington naval conference would not be used for ships of over 25,000 tons. France obtained the right to build three 23,300 ton vessels of the super-cruiser class.

Experts said that the agreement removed many obstacles from the path of the 1932 world disarmament conference and opened the way for the solution of other Franco-Italian political problems. It was believed that Italy would be in a position to obtain financial assistance either in the United States or France, now that her naval expenditures have been reduced.

Morrison County Taxpayers Not Averse to State Income Tax

Little Falls, Minn., March 2.—(UP)—The Morrison County Taxpayers Association in a joint meeting Saturday with the County Farm Bureau Federation unanimously rejected a resolution proposing that the meeting go on record as opposed to a state income tax law.

Among the speakers at the meeting was A. S. Jones, secretary-treasurer of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation. He spoke in favor of the proposed income tax measure.

The Minnesota Taxpayers' Association is in favor of economy in government and opposed to the income tax proposals now before the state legislature.

HENRY G. TEIGAN NOW DIRECTOR OF STATE PERSONNEL

St. Paul, Minn., March 2.—(UP)—Henry G. Teigan of Minneapolis, secretary of the Minnesota farmer-labor party, today assumed the position of director of personnel under the state department of administration and finance.

Teigan succeeds George Hayes of St. Paul, who had held the position since 1925. He was appointed by Gov. Floyd B. Olson.

SENATE JUDICIARY COMMITTEE FAILS TO ACT IN MATTER

GIVES NO DECISION ON HOOVER'S NOMINATION OF NORDBYE

POST VACANT UNLESS SPECIAL MEETING IS TO BE CALLED

Washington, March 2.—(UP)—The senate judiciary committee failed at its last regular meeting of the session today to act on President Hoover's nomination of Gunnar H. Nordbye to a new federal judgeship in Minnesota. Unless a special meeting is called, this action will leave the post vacant, and the president cannot give a recess appointment.

Schall today submitted final affidavits charging that Nordbye in the last campaign "slandered, vilified and belittled" him and asked that the committee enforce "the time honored custom" of recognizing a senator's personal objection to a nominee. If that was not done, Schall asked that the nomination go over without action.

Simultaneously, Nordbye sent a telegram denying he had made any remarks reflecting on Schall's candidacy, character or qualification, and branded as without foundation charges to that effect.

Schall submitted affidavits from E. R. Johnson, Clarence Rhodes, Orell M. Leen and Michael Ferch, all of Minneapolis, saying they had overheard conversations by Nordbye in which he attacked Schall personally.

Tom Davis, law partner of Ernest Michel, whom Schall favored for the judgeship, appeared personally against Nordbye. Davis charged Attorney General Mitchell had influenced the president to hurry through Nordbye's nomination in the closing days of the session. He asked Nordbye's rejection "if the senate is to remain a bulwark against arbitrary centralization of power."

This testimony was entered during a brief session of a judiciary sub-committee which later went into executive session with the full committee. There was a hint that Schall might obtain delay, forcing the nomination over, or failing that, would delay it on the senate floor tomorrow.

CAPONE SENTENCED TO 6 MONTHS JAIL

IS FOUND GUILTY IN CHICAGO OF CRIMINAL CONTEMPT OF COURT

Chicago, March 2.—(UP)—Alphonse "Scarface" Al Capone heard today without finishing the sentence of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, committing him to six months in jail for criminal contempt of court.

Capone appeared to hear formal pronouncement of the sentence Wilkerson fixed last week.

The gang leader, listed as "Public Enemy No. 1," brought out of his wardrobe the most colorful of his clothing creations. During the three days of his trial, he wore three different suits. Today he had still another, a dark green model, with light brown shoes and spats to set it off.

Another crowd fought and pushed at the court room doors to get inside. "Not as big as last week," Capone commented.

He appeared bored as Judge Wilkerson read off the sentence.

Judge Wilkerson gave William Waugh, Capone's attorney, 10 days in which to file exceptions to the verdict, and 30 days to perfect an appeal.

The appeal must be filed with the clerk of the appellate court by June 1, Wilkerson ruled.

Capone's $5,000 bond will continue in force until then, permitting the gang leader his freedom.

House Favors Huge Cut in Immigration

Washington, March 2.—(UP)—The house today went on record for a 90 per cent reduction of immigration for the next two years, passing the Jenkins bill after one of the most bitter legislative struggles of the session.

The house gave the measure two-thirds which was required under suspension of rules. It was adoption of this extraordinary procedure by Speaker Longworth that started a bitter fight Saturday night which was echoed in the house today.

The bill urged as an aid to employment in this country, now goes to the senate. It would reduce the flow of immigration from around 150,000 annually to about 15,000 annually during the next two years.

Chief changes from the House measure are the addition of $91,800 for a nurses' home at the Gillette hospital for crippled children, St. Paul; $80,000 for a gymnasium at Fairbault; addition of $115,000 for care of children unsuitable for adoption. The senate reduced the soldiers' welfare fund from $20,000 to $10,000.

Total of the House bill was $10,729,000. The senate reduced several smaller items.

Titled Englishwoman on Trial

The sensation of the hour in France is the trial of Lady Owen, widow of an English baronet, at Versailles. She is charged with the attempted murder of Mme. Gastaud, wife of a French physician who, Lady Owen says, paged her marked attention and went so far as to promise that he would divorce Mme. Gastaud and marry her. His failure to keep that promise was the cause of the shooting. Lady Owen is shown above in court guarded by a smiling gendarme.

NAVAL ACCORD TO STOP RACE IN SHIP BUILDING

AGREEMENT IS REACHED BETWEEN FRANCE, ITALY AND GREAT BRITAIN

PACT CROWNS A YEAR OF ACrimonious DISCUSSIONS

Paris, Mar. 2.—(UP)—The naval accord reached between France, Italy and Great Britain regulating construction until 1936 and avoiding a building race between France and Italy was approved today by the council of ministers.

The accord will be submitted to parliament as soon as the United States and Japan adhere to the clause limiting the construction of future warships to 25,000 tons or less.

The agreement crowned a year of acrimonious negotiations dominated by the possibility that France and Italy would begin a building race which would force England to increase her naval forces under the "escalator clause" of the London treaty. This clause made it possible for Britain, the United States or Japan to resume building if any of the three signatories to the full treaty considered its position threatened by the naval program of other powers.

Foreign Minister Aristide Briand announced that the terms of the tripartite agreement would not be revealed for several days, as England wishes to confer with her dominions before signing.

British and French officials declined to comment on the terms of the agreement, but the United Press learned from an excellent source that French naval superiority over Italy was reduced from 240,000 tons to 190,000 tons, most of the reduction coming from projected submarines and super-submarines.

It was agreed that the battleship tonnage allotted at the Washington naval conference would not be used for ships of over 25,000 tons. France obtained the right to build three 23,000 ton vessels of the super-cruiser class.

Experts said that the agreement removed many obstacles from the path of the 1932 world disarmament conference and opened the way for the solution of other Franco-Italian political problems. It was believed that Italy would be in a position to obtain financial assistance either in the United States or France, now that her naval expenditures have been reduced.

Morrison County Taxpayers Not Averse to State Income Tax

Little Falls, Minn., March 2.—(UP)—The Morrison County Taxpayers Association in a joint meeting Saturday with the County Farm Bureau Federation unanimously rejected a resolution proposing that the meeting go on record as opposed to a state income tax law.

Among the speakers at the meeting was A. S. Jones, secretary-treasurer of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation. He spoke in favor of the proposed income tax measure.

The Minnesota Taxpayers' Association is in favor of economy in government and opposed to the income tax proposals now before the state legislature.

HENRY G. TEIGAN NOW DIRECTOR OF STATE PERSONNEL

St. Paul, Minn., March 2.—(UP)—Henry G. Teigan of Minneapolis, secretary of the Minnesota farmer-labor party, today assumed the position of director of personnel under the state department of administration and finance.

Teigan succeeds George Hayes of St. Paul, who had held the position since 1925. He was appointed by Gov. Floyd E. Olson.

SENATE JUDICIARY COMMITTEE FAILS TO ACT IN MATTER

GIVES NO DECISION ON HOOVER'S NOMINATION OF NORDBYE

POST VACANT UNLESS SPECIAL MEETING IS TO BE CALLED

Washington, March 2.—(UP)—The senate judiciary committee failed at its last regular meeting of the session today to act on President Hoover's nomination of Gunnar H. Nordbye to a new federal judgeship in Minnesota. Unless a special meeting is called, this action will leave the post vacant, and the president cannot give a recess appointment.

Schall today submitted final affidavits charging that Nordbye in the last campaign "slandered, vilified and belittled" him and asked that the committee enforce "the time honored custom" of recognizing a senator's personal objection to a nominee. If that was not done, Schall asked that the nomination go over without action.

Simultaneously, Nordbye sent a telegram denying he had made any remarks reflecting on Schall's candidacy, character or qualification, and branded as without foundation charges to that effect.

Schall submitted affidavits from E. R. Johnson, Clarence Rhodes, Orell M. Leen and Michael Ferch, all of Minneapolis, saying they had overheard conversations by Nordbye in which he attacked Schall personally.

Tom Davis, law partner of Ernest Michel, whom Schall favored for the judgeship, appeared personally against Nordbye. Davis charged Attorney General Mitchell had influenced the president to hurry through Nordbye's nomination in the closing days of the session. He asked Nordbye's rejection "if the senate is to remain a bulwark against arbitrary centralization of power."

This testimony was entered during a brief session of a judiciary sub-committee which later went into executive session with the full committee. There was a hint that Schall might obtain delay, forcing the nomination over, or failing that, would delay it on the senate floor tomorrow.

CAPONE SENTENCED TO 6 MONTHS JAIL

IS FOUND GUILTY IN CHICAGO OF CRIMINAL CONTEMPT OF COURT

Chicago, March 2.—(UP)—Alphonse "Scarface Al" Capone heard today without fining the sentence of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, committing him to six months in jail for criminal contempt of court.

Capone appeared to hear formal pronouncement of the sentence Wilkerson fixed last week.

The gang leader, listed as "Public Enemy No. 1," brought out of his wardrobe the most colorful of his clothing creations. During the three days of his trial, he wore three different suits. Today he had still another, a dark green model, with light brown shoes and spats to set it off.

Another crowd fought and pushed at the court room doors to get inside. "Not as big as last week," Capone commented.

He appeared bored as Judge Wilkerson read off the sentence. Judge Wilkerson gave William Waugh, Capone's attorney, 10 days in which to file exceptions to the verdict, and 30 days to perfect an appeal.

The appeal must be filed with the clerk of the appellate court by June 1, Wilkerson ruled.

Capone's $5,000 bond will continue in force until then, permitting the gang leader his freedom.

House Favors Huge Cut in Immigration

Washington, March 2.—(UP)—The house today went on record for a 90 per cent reduction of immigration for the next two years, passing the Jenkins bill after one of the most bitter legislative struggles of the session.

The house gave the measure two-thirds which was required under suspension of rules. It was adoption of this extraordinary procedure by Speaker Longworth that started a bitter fight Saturday night which was reechoed in the house today.

The bill urged as an aid to employment in this country, now goes to the senate. It would reduce the flow of immigration from around 150,000 annually to about 15,000 annually during the next two years.

URGES SUPPORT OF NEW TRUCK BILL

Governing Operation of Common Carrier Motor Vehicles on Highways of the State of Minnesota

MEASURE IS SENATE FILE 535

Robert Anderson, Secretary of Railway Booster Club, Discusses Effect of Measure on Brainerd

In a letter to the Brainerd Dispatch, written by Robert Anderson, secretary of the Brainerd Railway Booster club, he describes the advantages of a bill introduced in the senate governing common carrier motor vehicles as follows:

With reference to Senate bill 535 recently introduced by State Senators Morin, McKenzie, (Mrs.) Naplin, Pattison and others, amending Chapter 185, Session Laws, 1925, governing the operation of common carrier motor vehicles on the highways of this state, the writer wishes to make the following comment:

It will, I believe, be freely acknowledged that insofar as the general transportation needs of our country are concerned, nothing can take the place of our railroads. In the long distance hauling of ore, lumber, logs, grain, meats, machinery and all forms of merchandise the railroads are indispensable; no other form of land transportation can or will haul anything and everything offered.

In the opening up and development of our country our railroad builders were truly pioneers and played a most important and necessary part. Large investments were made in roadways, station buildings, shops and rolling stock. And in order that these facilities may be kept in condition to serve the transportation needs of our country, it is necessary that continuing large sums be expended for labor and materials. Not only that, but as new country is opened for development, additional lines must be built and equipped, and, when the already owned rolling stock, building and other facilities become worn out or obsolete, replacement must be made with new and up-to-date units of a like kind.

That the transportation so far furnished by our railroads has been adequate and satisfactory is, I believe, obvious. In spite of the far-flung distances separating the boundaries of our country, in the face of seemingly insurmountable mountain barriers, in the spanning of wide rivers the railroad leaders have pressed ever onward until today we find practically every corner of our country served by steam transportation.

What have been the results? Well, it has enabled the farmer to establish himself on what up to then had been inaccessible land; it permitted the manufacture into lumber of hitherto far-off forests; it made possible the mining of ores and coal that up until then had lain dormant with no more value than the ground by which they were covered. By our industry we have become a great industrial nation; a nation dotted with comfortable homes, splendidly equipped school buildings, well-built towns, fine public buildings and churches, well-maintained highways, and all of these attributes of our present day life were made possible by our railroads which today are supplying the most dependable, the best and the cheapest transportation of any railroad system in the world.

Now, if it is true that our railroads have made possible our present high state of agricultural and industrial development—and I believe you will agree with me that they have; also, if it is true that our continued development and prosperity as a nation is largely dependent upon the proper functioning of our railroads—and again I believe you will agree with me that it is, then I feel that you will also agree with me that our railroads are entitled to a proper consideration and protection in the pursuit of their business.

Of the monies paid into our public treasures the railroads have, and are, contributing their full share. The money so collected is used for the purpose of carrying on the business of government: pay of officers; construction of public schools and buildings; for the various functions of common concern including the building and maintaining of highways.

During the past few years, by reason of highway transportation by trucks and buses, the railroads have faced steadily declining revenues, short-haul (local) freight has fallen off by one-half; passenger business has decreased to one-third its former volume; branch lines have been discontinued, stations closed, branch lines have been forced into bankruptcy. Faced with declining business the railroads have been compelled to reduce forces; to close down their shops—some temporarily and others permanently; delay needed improvements; take off trains. Every movement of this nature is reflected in less business for the communities served by the railroads. Naturally this is favored by neither as the prosperity of one is dependent to a large extent upon the prosperity of the other.

Now, the railroads of this country are well prepared and equipped to meet any form of competition that stands on its own feet. As was said awhile back they are furnishing the best and cheapest cost transportation of any railroad system in the world. They have in the past paid their own way, and if this country is to continue to advance they must in the future be allowed to pay their own way; and to make a fair return for their efforts.

To any form of fair competition they offer no objection, but they do object—and vigorously—to unfair competition. Not only do the railroads maintain their own roadway but a portion of the money they pay as taxes is used to build and maintain the public highways—which is very good and proper, where such highways are used for the common good; however, when their competitors, the truck and bus companies, use these highways as a place of business—and without maintaining them—then the railroads do object—and rightfully. It is true that the truck and bus companies pay a gasoline tax, also an ad valorem tax on the value of their vehicles and other property—a portion of which taxes are used in building and maintaining the public highways. However, we railroad employees contend that the amount thus contributed is not commensurate to the benefits received.

We believe that it is as unfair for the state to build and maintain a public highway and then allow it to be used as a place of business and means for private gain as it would be for the state to build and maintain with funds collected through taxation the roadway over which the railroads operate. We believe it is just as unfair as it would be to grant without cost—other than a small tax—the use of the city hall or court house as a place of business for a bakery, a shoe shop or a

ROASTING CONTROL IS FLAVOR SECRET OF RARE COFFEE

Scientific Control Gives Hills Bros. Coffee the Flavor of Flavors

Invariably foods cooked in small quantities taste the best. The cook is able to control every step—perfectly—mixing, flavoring and cooking.

The principle of Hills Bros.' patented, continuous roasting process is based on the same idea. Instead of roasting their exclusive blend of coffee in bulk, measured quantities of about three pounds pass continuously through the roasters. The heat and speed of operation are accurately controlled with the result that Hills Bros. Coffee is absolutely uniform.

No other coffee can have the same delicious, uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee because no other coffee is roasted the same way. This process—Controlled Roasting—was originated and patented by Hills Bros.

The vacuum can in which Hills Bros. Coffee is packed keeps it fresh always. By the vacuum packing process, air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken out of the can and kept out. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, will not keep coffee fresh. Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

drug store in competition with others in the same line who own, maintain and pay taxes on their places of business.

The rates to be charged for hauling freight and passengers are, for the railroads, fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and are based on what, in their opinion, will yield a fair return on the investment. The Commission also regulates the conditions under which the railroads operate; fixes the hours of labor its employees can be worked; carefully specifies and inspects the condition of its equipment; provides the manner in which its accounts shall be kept. Also, the Commission regulates the construction of new railroads and will permit the building of parallel lines where adequate service is already provided. We railroad workers believe that the truck and bus companies should be subject to the same conditions and regulations.

Do not misunderstand us. Where adequate service is not being furnished; where, as in inland towns, there is no train service, we do not object to truck and bus service. Neither do we object to the operation of trucks by farmers, manufacturers or merchants in the sole conduct of their business. We do feel, however, that any concern engaged in the business of a common carrier should build and maintain their own highway, or pay adequate compensation for the use thereof, and should be subject to the same rules and regulations as are the railroads.

It is for this purpose that the above bill has been introduced into the legislature. If you feel as we do—that the railroads are being unfairly discriminated against—then we ask that you write to your state senator, C. H. Rosenmeier, and to your representatives, A. M. Opsahl and E. P. Seallor, in care of the State Capitol, St. Paul, and ask them to support the legislation for the regulation of highway trucks and buses.

In conclusion I will add that in addition to the over two million dollars paid annually by the railroads as wages to their employees in this vicinity, the Northern Pacific railway and its subsidiaries pay into the treasury of Crow Wing county over sixty-five thousand dollars annually as taxes.

Pastor, Family, Old Parishioner Honored at Sunday School Meet

During the Sunday School session of the Swedish Bethany church Sunday morning, there were two surprises, one on John Soderlund who celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday, and one on Rev. and Mrs. P. G. Fallquist who have just completed twelve years of service here.

Mr. Soderlund was presented with a book by Oscar Swanson, Sunday School superintendent, on behalf of the Sunday School of which Mr. Soderlund has been a member for the past 41 years, and is still active as teacher of the Bible class. His class presented him with a bouquet of carnations.

Rev. E. G. Dahlin, on behalf of the Sunday School, presented Rev. and Mrs. Fallquist and family with a large bouquet of flowers as a token of their esteem of his work among them. Rev. Fallquist is now commencing his 13th year here.

Fairbault, Minn., March 2.—(U.P.)—Small boy playmates who were helping Harland Hoyer, 8, chop down a tree Saturday were pall bearers today at his funeral.

A huge dead limb was jarred loose from the tree by the repeated axe blows of the small boys and killed Harland. The boys were playing at a game as lumberjacks in a vacant lot near the home of Harland's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hoyer.

The second boy fatality over the week-end was reported with the death of Veryl Wagner, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wagner who died in St. Lucas hospital where he had been confined with a fractured skull since an automobile accident Thursday.

URGES SUPPORT OF NEW TRUCK BILL

Governing Operation of Common Carrier Motor Vehicles on Highways of the State of Minnesota

MEASURE IS SENATE FILE 535

Robert Anderson, Secretary of Railway Booster Club, Discusses Effect of Measure on Brainerd

In a letter to the Brainerd Dispatch, written by Robert Anderson, secretary of the Brainerd Railway Booster club, he describes the advantages of a bill introduced in the senate governing common carrier motor vehicles as follows:

With reference to Senate bill 535 recently introduced by State Senators Morin, McKenzie, (Mrs.) Naplin, Patterson and others, amending Chapter 185, Session Laws, 1925, governing the operation of common carrier motor vehicles on the highways of this state, the writer wishes to make the following comment:

It will, I believe, be freely acknowledged that insofar as the general transportation needs of our country are concerned, nothing can take the place of our railroads. In the long distance hauling of ore, lumber, logs, grain, meats, machinery and all forms of merchandise the railroads are indispensable; no other form of land transportation can or will haul anything and everything offered.

In the opening up and development of our country our railroad builders were truly pioneers and played a most important and necessary part. Large investments were made in roadways, station buildings, shops and rolling stock. And in order that these facilities may be kept in condition to serve the transportation needs of our country, it is necessary that continuing large sums be expended for labor and materials. Seek to Improve Lake Level Regulations

THE regulations for the control of northern reservoir lakes recently issued by the War Department, have been examined by Congressman Harold Knutson, Congressman Pittenger of Duluth and Col. Mollison of the Minnesota Lake Levels Association and they have conferred with General Brown.

In a letter to Col. Wildurr Willing, United States District Engineer, Congressman Knutson calls attention to the changes deemed necessary.

Attention among other things was called to the fact that "the people living near Pokegama complained that the maximum should be lowered to 9 feet instead of 12 feet as they contend that thousands of acres of hay and farm lands would be flooded each year with a 12-foot maximum. General Brown thought that a compromise of 10 feet might be agreeable but instructed General Pillsbury to ascertain the views of Col. Willing with reference to that before taking action.

"We also asked," said the Congressman, "that the minimum at Pine River be raised to 11 feet for the reason that if the levels of Cross and Whitefish lakes should get below 11 feet in the spring it would result in killing thousands of fish in pockets where they had gone to spawn. You will also be asked with reference to this.

"I am very much interested in having an 11-foot minimum established at Pine River as my summer home is there and the Post Office Department complains that they cannot maintain launch mail delivery on Whitefish lake with a 9-foot minimum. We also ask that the fishways be closed so as to prevent German carp from getting up into the reservoir lakes. He said that the matter could be worked out between yourself (Col. Willing) and Mr. Stewart, Commissioner of Game and Fish. The General indicated that they were perfectly willing to have the fishways closed.

Congressman Knutson then asks Col. Willing if it would not be possible to reduce the minimum discharge at Winnibigoshish, Leech and Pokegama to the natural normal flow so that these lakes may be built up to minimum at an earlier date than indicated in the statement of February 21. I note in your communication of February 21 you use this language, 'to assist in maintaining the water power industry.'

"I have been assured repeatedly by your office (Col. Willing's office) that the needs of the water power interests did not enter into the withdrawal of water from the reservoir lakes and many others have the same assurance. We have had the same assurance from the Engineer's office in Washington. Surely the Department cannot afford to take the position of being willing to ruin the lakes of northern Minnesota in order to enable power companies to save fuel and yet that is practically what it amounts to. This is the first time that the Engineer's office has admitted that the needs of the water power industry have been taken into consideration in the withdrawal of waters and I would like to have a further explanation on this phase of your statement.

"The figures that you have set for the three lower reservoirs are entirely satisfactory.

"Frankly, Col. Willing, if we could arrive at an agreement for the conduct of these reservoirs that would be fairly satisfactory and fair to all concerned, I do not see that there would be any need for legislation," writes Congressman Knutson in conclusion. "I am not at all anxious to put a bill through fixing a hard and fast rule for the conduct of the reservoirs for I realize that we should have a certain degree of flexibility which a law would not permit. I feel that you should have a report of what we did this morning (February 26) and that is what prompted me in writing you."

Congressman Knutson stated he expected to be in St. Paul about March 12 and will take the occasion to call upon Col. Willing.

This should be assurance to all lovers of fair play in the matter of adequate lake levels that constructive work is being done in the cause and that a measure of relief will soon be in evidence.

Road Bonds and Taxes

COMMISSIONER C. M. BABCOCK performs a timely service when he invites attention to the fact that any bonds issued to expedite the paving of our trunk highways will not and cannot become a tax burden upon general property, says the Laverne Herald.

It is true that the constitutional provision under which our highway system was adopted, provides that if motor vehicle taxes are inadequate to pay the principal and interest on bonds, the legislature may levy a general tax to make up the difference. But this provision was adopted when both motor vehicles and good roads were in their infancy, and when it was necessary to place the good faith of the state back of the bonds in order to sell them.

The development in the use of motor vehicles has been so enormous and their use so much a necessity that the possibility of any decrease in motor vehicle taxes is inconceivable. As pointed out by Mr. Babcock, motor vehicle taxes could drop to one-fifth of their present amount, and there still would be enough income to pay interest and principal on all outstanding bonds and on any bonds it is now proposed to issue.

Bonds for paving will be used for paving and will be paid for out of the fund created solely by those who use the highways.

"FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Nancy Hollenbeck is the young and beautiful daughter of a poor but socially accepted family. She is warned by her mother against marrying poverty. Nancy, becoming cynical, gives up handsome Mat Tully and begins an affair with Jack Beamer, married to wealth. Jack plans to divorce his wife and marry Nancy. On a trip to Yellowstone, Nancy meets Roger Decatur, a ranger. The Porters, rich but dull relatives, arrive. Nancy plans to use them as chaperones on a mountain trip to meet Roger. He appears the first night. The Porters are not pleased. Nancy and Roger take long rides over the mountain trails. They fall in love, but Nancy tells Roger she will only marry for wealth. She prepares to leave the mountain camp. Roger tries to induce her to stay. She tells him they will get over their love. When Nancy misses the bus, Roger tells her they will be married at once.

CHAPTER XVIII.

"WATER!" whispered Aunt Ellie, prostrate in her chair. "Damn!" Louise swore under her breath. Just like Aunt Ellie to feel faint because they were talking about something else and forgetting her. But she dampened Aunt Ellie's brow dutifully, and brought her warm milk and placed a shawl over her fat shoulders.

It had been that way ever since Nancy left the Valley. As soon as anyone spoke to Louise, or showed the least sign of wishing to include her in a bridge game, or asking her to dance, Aunt Ellie felt faint.

First she'd close her eyes, then she'd sigh. Then, if no one made solicitous inquiries at once she would place one hand firmly over her frizzed bangs, and the other would paw the air feebly. "Louise... faint..."

That always made a lovely commotion with bellhops rushing with marmosins and smelling salts, and hotel guests pausing sympathetically. "Is there anything we can do?"

"Oh, thank you... no... nothing." Lou would murmur politely, leading the old lady toward the elevators when she wanted to shake the old fraud until her teeth rattled and scream jump on her, will you?"

Then, with Aunt Ellie safe in her room, with eau de cologne on her forehead and chocolates and mineral water close at hand, she could shut the communicating door and have an hour alone with her tortured thoughts.

A Poor Relation

"I'm getting terribly bitter. Things can't be like this. I hate grand hotels and food. I hate having to tondy to Aunt Ellie and be a poor relation. I hate men, too. I wish I could have gone through college and taken social service work... or even stenography; it's better than living like this. I wonder how mama is. I wish the davenport and the frigidaire were paid for... oh, why doesn't Nancy write? She hasn't said a word about that ranger she met... it would be just like Jack Beamer to find out where she is and motor up. Mrs. Porter would talk, for, of course, she reads the society columns, she's just the kind, and she'd know he's married..."

The days were bearable, though; it was the nights that were terrible. In the daytime she could at least sit on the veranda, conscious that she looked cool and crisp and rather lovely, without Nancy to divert interest. "There's a sweet looking girl," she knew her prosperous business men in golf pants who turned back to look again were thinking. And she knew the athletic girls with sun-burned noses and scuffed shoes envied her her smooth, ivory skin and trim, unscarred slippers. After all, it was rather fun staying in the best hotel, wearing immaculate linens and organdies, lips carefully tinted geranium, sleek dark hair brushed till it was dark brown satin... not even Aunt Ellie could spoil that.

But the nights! The nights were terrible. Black, quiet nights, with Aunt Ellie, who slept too much during the day, wakeful and dildgety until midnight.

"LOUISE! Are you in bed yet? I feel I'm not going to sleep. You better ring for my warm milk, and tell them I don't mean skim milk, a little cream in it. I've got to have my nourishment though I don't know what for with the husband I've got..."

Lonely Nights

And when she finally dozed, Louise at her window looking out into the star-flecked night listening... listening...

Sometimes she heard laughter, sometimes dance music, once the tinkle of a mandolin and a man's voice singing out there in the dark, "Funiculi, Funicular..." The nights were the worst.

Mail came for Nancy. A gray envelope from Mat Tully. What in the world could be in it? Why should he be writing now... after the way Nancy treated him? Not for worlds would Louise open a letter addressed to her sister, but she picked it up, weighed it in her hands, held it against her cheek...

There were Jack Beamer's letters, too. She hid those hastily in a suitcase. Aunt Ellie must not notice them before Nancy came back...

Three weeks. Aunt Ellie was determined to stick it out as long as Uncle Joseph stayed in the hospital, but she was already repenting of having brought both her nieces, delighted to think that Nancy was continuing her vacation at the Porters' expense.

"Such a fine opportunity for Nancy," she said, whenever she thought of it, which was not very often. Out of sight, out of mind with Aunt Ellie. She even forgot to tell Louise the joke about silly Mrs. Porter tipping a stage driver.

And now they were home again, and Nancy still with the Porters. At least, she said she was... but Jack Beamer's letters had abruptly ceased. No more word to Nancy. Perhaps that meant that Nancy was keeping him informed of her address, writing every day or so to him while she neglected the family. But that wasn't likely, Nancy was not given to letter writing.

Jack Beamer had a stock farm somewhere in Nevada. Could Nancy have been foolish enough to visit him there, on one of his wild house parties? Surely... wouldn't be so foolish...

And now... spent a couple of... getting acquainted with the stolid Porters, Louise could hardly imagine Nancy staying on with them so long. A few days perhaps—to get the trip to Tuolumne Meadows, but hardly three weeks... unless she was having some sort of affair with that ranger, and even that was improbable...

"I wish Nancy would come home. I don't want her staying in Reno with those Porter people!" Mama fussed.

"Oh, she's all right. Mama, stop WORRYING!" Louise answered patiently, at least once every half-hour.

If she could only think so! If Nancy would only write... a real letter...

Nancy Hollenbeck—Nancy Hollenbeck that was—chewed her pen and scowled at the scrawled sheet at the desk before her.

"Oh, Lord, I don't know what to say," she yawned, and covered her pink mouth with an ink-stained finger. "You don't know my family, Roger. The devil himself couldn't reason with them once they get an idea in their heads. Now if the Porters ruin everything by writing from Talac the day I wrote from Reno... oh, dear..."

She groaned, and laughed and threw him a kiss. Roger Decatur, sprawled full length on the bed, pushed the evening papers aside and raised himself on one elbow, so that he could get a better look at Nancy. "I wish you'd cut out the monkey business and tell them the truth," he said, a little wistfully.

"Why?"

"You know why. I don't like secrets, Nancy. It's sort of cheapens things. You and I... sneaking..."

He broke off, embarrassed at Nancy's whoop of joy. "Darling, do you mean you're afraid I don't look like your lawfully wedded wife? You sound just like mama! You're going to have something in common after all, you're both so... so RESPECTABLE!"

"Just the same, I wish you'd tell them."

"Roger, dear, I will after a while."

"But I mean now."

Nancy's soft red mouth quivered ever so slightly. She pushed the russet curls back from her forehead with a tired gesture. "If you won't understand that I just don't want to worry them, right now with dad half sick and mama worrying over one thing and another..."

When her voice broke he felt a brute. After all, it was her affair, really. He hadn't any people. Not one but Nancy... his wife... who knew the world knew it or not...

"Nancy... all right, old lady. I guess you're the boss. Make up!"

He came and took her in his arms, rumpling her bright hair holding her closer... closer. Nancy relaxed with a soft little sigh. Her head was on his shoulder, her cheek next to his. She shut her eyes and the ugly hotel room disappeared... so did her half-written letter to mama...

"I do love you, I do!" she whispered. "Nothing matters... but us..."

Really Living

Nothing matters... but us... She really felt that way when Roger's arms were about her, his brown cheek against hers. Hadn't she run off and married him with out even a touseau, and not knowing or caring where they were going, or how they were going to live? Nothing mattered, not the hot, dusty ride out of the valley, nor the Bonanza Hotel with its spotted wall paper and squeaky bed. Nothing... as real as Roger... Roger and love.

It was... she were living, really... living for the first time in her life, and all the other things, the things that used to matter so much were half-forgotten dreams.

"If anyone had told me that I'd ever start off on a wedding trip with two suitcases full of dirty clothes and four pairs of scuffed shoes, I'd have said they were CRAZY!" she told Roger on that first giddy, care-free day.

"Why, you're all right. You look beautiful to me," he said, soberly. He meant it, poor dear. Nancy could hardly keep from kissing him riding through the main street in Reno in his dusty, weather-beaten car. Her heart beat high. She thought of mama... how surprised she'd be... Louise, too... would never believe she'd have the courage to go through with it...

neither would the girls, May Belle Craig and the others... poor makeshifts they were getting... imitations love... "Nobody can say I'm not a good sport!" she thought, with a funny little glow of pride. For so long she had thought of herself as spoiled and selfish and gloried in it. But now she was different, everything was different...

...when she was with Roger.

Seek to Improve Lake Level Regulations

THE regulations for the control of northern reservoir lakes recently issued by the War Department, have been examined by Congressman Harold Knutson, Congressman Pittenger of Duluth and Col. Mollison of the Minnesota Lake Levels Association and they have conferred with General Brown.

In a letter to Col. Wildurr Willing, United States District Engineer, Congressman Knutson calls attention to the changes deemed necessary.

Attention among other things was called to the fact that "the people living near Pokegama complained that the maximum should be lowered to 9 feet instead of 12 feet as they contend that thousands of acres of hay and farm lands would be flooded each year with a 12-foot maximum. General Brown thought that a compromise of 10 feet might be agreeable but instructed General Pillsbury to ascertain the views of Col. Willing with reference to that before taking action.

"We also asked," said the Congressman, "that the minimum at Pine River be raised to 11 feet for the reason that if the levels of Cross and Whitefish lakes should get below 11 feet in the spring it would result in killing thousands of fish in pockets where they had gone to spawn. You will also be asked with reference to this.

"I am very much interested in having an 11-foot minimum established at Pine River as my summer home is there and the Post Office Department complains that they cannot maintain launch mail delivery on Whitefish lake with a 9-foot minimum. We also ask that the fishways be closed so as to prevent German carp from getting up into the reservoir lakes. He said that the matter could be worked out between yourself (Col. Willing) and Mr. Stewart, Commissioner of Game and Fish. The General indicated that they were perfectly willing to have the fishways closed.

Congressman Knutson then asks Col. Willing if it would not be possible to reduce the minimum discharge at Winnibigoshish, Leech and Pokegama to the natural normal flow so that these lakes may be built up to minimum at an earlier date than indicated in the statement of February 21. I note in your communication of February 21 you use this language, 'to assist in maintaining the water power industry.'

"I have been assured repeatedly by your office (Col. Willing's office) that the needs of the water power interests did not enter into the withdrawal of water from the reservoir lakes and many others have the same assurance. We have had the same assurance from the Engineer's office in Washington. Surely the Department cannot afford to take the position of being willing to ruin the lakes of northern Minnesota in order to enable power companies to save fuel and yet that is practically what it amounts to. This is the first time that the Engineer's office has admitted that the needs of the water power industry have been taken into consideration in the withdrawal of waters and I would like to have a further explanation on this phase of your statement.

"The figures that you have set for the three lower reservoirs are entirely satisfactory.

"Frankly, Col. Willing, if we could arrive at an agreement for the conduct of these reservoirs that would be fairly satisfactory and fair to all concerned, I do not see that there would be any need for legislation," writes Congressman Knutson in conclusion. "I am not at all anxious to put a bill through fixing a hard and fast rule for the conduct of the reservoirs for I realize that we should have a certain degree of flexibility which a law would not permit. I feel that you should have a report of what we did this morning (February 26) and that is what prompted me in writing you."

Congressman Knutson stated he expected to be in St. Paul about March 12 and will take the occasion to call upon Col. Willing.

This should be assurance to all lovers of fair play in the matter of adequate lake levels that constructive work is being done in the cause and that a measure of relief will soon be in evidence.

Road Bonds and Taxes

COMMISSIONER C. M. BABCOCK performs a timely service when he invites attention to the fact that any bonds issued to expedite the paving of our trunk highways will not and cannot become a tax burden upon general property, says the Laverne Herald.

It is true that the constitutional provision under which our highway system was adopted, provides that if motor vehicle taxes are inadequate to pay the principal and interest on bonds, the legislature may levy a general tax to make up the difference. But this provision was adopted when both motor vehicles and good roads were in their infancy, and when it was necessary to place the good faith of the state back of the bonds in order to sell them.

The development in the use of motor vehicles has been so enormous and their use so much a necessity that the possibility of any decrease in motor vehicle taxes is inconceivable. As pointed out by Mr. Babcock, motor vehicle taxes could drop to one-fifth of their present amount, and there still would be enough income to pay interest and principal on all outstanding bonds and on any bonds it is now proposed to issue.

Bonds for paving will be used for paving and will be paid for out of the fund created solely by those who use the highways.

"FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Nancy Hollenbeck is the young and beautiful daughter of a poor but socially accepted family. She is warned by her mother against marrying poverty. Nancy, becoming cynical, gives up handsome Mat Tully and begins an affair with Jack Beamer, married to wealth. Jack plans to divorce his wife and marry Nancy. On a trip to Yellowstone, Nancy meets Roger Decatur, a ranger. The Porters, rich but dull relatives, arrive. Nancy plans to use them as chaperones on a mountain trip to meet Roger. He appears the first night. The Porters are not pleased. Nancy and Roger take long rides over the mountain trails. They fall in love, but Nancy tells Roger she will only marry for wealth. She prepares to leave the mountain camp. Roger tries to induce her to stay. She tells him they will get over their love. When Nancy misses the bus, Roger tells her they will be married at once.

CHAPTER XVIII.

"WATER!" whispered Aunt Ellie, prostrate in her chair. "Damn!" Louise swore under her breath. Just like Aunt Ellie to feel faint because they were talking about something else and forgetting her. But she dampened Aunt Ellie's brow dutifully, and brought her warm milk and placed a shawl over her fat shoulders. It had been that way ever since anyone spoke to Louise, or showed the least sign of wishing to include her in a bridge game, or asking her to dance. Aunt Ellie felt faint. First she'd close her eyes, then she'd sigh. Then, if no one made solicitous inquiries at once she would place one hand firmly over her frizzed bangs, and the other would paw the air feebly. "Louise, faint."

That always made a lovely commotion with bellhops rushing with ammonia and smelling salts, and hotel guests pausing sympathetically. "Is there anything we can do?"

"Oh, thank you . . . no . . . nothing." Lou would murmur politely, leading the old lady to ward off the elevators when she wanted to shake the old fraud until her teeth rattled and scream. "Yes, help me knock her down and jump on her, will you?"

Then, with Aunt Ellie safe in her room, with eau de cologne on her forehead and chocolates and mineral water close at hand, she could shut the communicating door and have an hour alone with her tortured thoughts.

A Poor Relation

"I'm getting terribly bitter. Things can't go on like this. I hate grand hotels and food. I hate having to toady to Aunt Ellie and so . . . I wish I could have gone through college and taken social service work . . . or even stenography; it's better than being like this. . . I wonder how mama is. . . I wish the davenport and the frigidaire were paid for . . . oh, why doesn't Nancy write? She hasn't said a word about that ranger she met . . . it would be just like Jack Beamer to find out where she is and motor up. . . Mrs. Porter would talk, for, of course, she reads the society columns, she's just the kind, and she'd know he's married. . . The days were bearable, though; it was the nights that were terrible. In the daytime she could at least sit on the veranda, conscious that she looked cool and crisp and rather lovely, without Nancy to divert interest. 'There's a sweet looking girl,' she knew her prosperous business men in golf pants who turned back to look again were thinking. And she knew the athletic girls with sunburned noses and scuffed shoes envied her smooth, ivory skin and trim, unscarred slippers. . . After all, it was rather fun staying in the best hotel, wearing immaculate linens and organdies, lips carefully tinted geranium, sleek dark hair brushed till it was dark brown satin . . . not even Aunt Ellie could spoil that.

But the nights! The nights were terrible. Black, quiet nights, with Aunt Ellie, who slept too much during the day, wakeful and fidgety until midnight. . .

"LOUISE! Are you in bed yet? I feel I'm not going to sleep. You better ring for my warm milk, and tell them I don't mean skim milk, a little cream in it. I've got to have my nourishment though I don't know what for with the husband I've got. . . HOSPITAL for rheumatism! Humph, I know why he went . . . pretty nurse. I know men, you can't trust them. . . after all I've done for him—all these years. . ."

Lonely Nights

And when she finally dozed, Louise at her window looking out into the star-flecked night listening. . . Sometimes she heard laughter, sometimes dance music, once the tinkle of a mandolin and a man's voice singing out there in the dark, "Funiculi, Funicular. . . The nights were the worst.

Mail came for Nancy. A gray envelope from Mat Tully. What in the world could be in it? Why should he be writing now . . . after the way Nancy treated him? Not for worlds would Louise open a letter addressed to her sister, but she picked it up, weighed it in her hands, held it against her cheek. . . There were Jack Beamer's letters, too. She hid those hastily in a suitcase. Aunt Ellie must not notice them before Nancy came back. . .

Three weeks. Aunt Ellie was determined to stick it out as long as Uncle Joseph stayed in the hospital, but she was already repenting of having brought both her nieces, delighted to think that Nancy was continuing her vacation at the Porters' expense.

"Such a fine opportunity for Nancy," she said, whenever she thought of it, which was not very often. Out of sight, out of mind with Aunt Ellie. She even forgot to tell Louise the joke about silly Mrs. Porter tipping a stage driver.

And now they were home again, and Nancy still with the Porters. At least, she said she was. . . but Jack Beamer's letters had abruptly ceased. No more came to the house to be forwarded to Nancy. Perhaps that meant that Nancy was keeping him informed of her address, writing every day or so to him while she neglected the family. But that wasn't likely. Nancy was not given to letter writing.

Jack Beamer had a stock farm somewhere in Nevada. Could Nancy have been foolish enough to visit him there, on one of his wild horse parties? Surely . . . wouldn't be so foolish. . .

And yet . . . spent a couple of . . . getting acquainted with the stolid Porters, Louise could hardly imagine Nancy staying on with them so long. A few days perhaps—to get the trip to Tuolumne Meadows, but hardly three weeks . . . unless she was having some sort of affair with that ranger, and even that was improbable.

"I wish Nancy would come home. I don't want her staying in Reno with those Porter people!" Mama fussed.

"Oh, she's all right. Mama, stop WORRYING!" Louise answered patiently, at least once every half-hour.

If she could only think so! If Nancy would only write . . . a real letter. . .

Nancy Hollenbeck—Nancy Hollenbeck that was—chewed her pen and scowled at the scrawled sheet at the desk before her.

"Oh, Lord, I don't know what to say," she yawned, and covered her pink mouth with an ink-stained finger. "You don't know my family, Roger. The devil himself couldn't reason with them once they get an idea in their heads. Now if the Porters ruin everything by writing from Talac the day I wrote from Reno. . . oh, dear. . ."

She groaned, and laughed and threw him a kiss. Roger Decatur, sprawled full length on the bed, pushed the evening papers aside and raised himself on one elbow, so that he could get a better look at Nancy. "I wish you'd cut out the monkey business and tell them the truth," he said, a little wistfully.

"Why?"

"You know why. I don't like secrets, Nancy. It—it sort of cheapens things. You and I . . . sneaking. . ."

He broke off, embarrassed at Nancy's whoop of joy. "Darling, do you mean you're afraid I don't look like your lawfully wedded wife? You sound just like mama! You're going to have something in common after all, you're both so . . . so RESPECTABLE!"

"Just the same, I wish you'd tell Roger."

"Roger, dear, I will after a while."

"But I mean now."

Nancy's soft red mouth quivered over so slightly. She pushed the russet curls back from her forehead with a tired gesture. "If you won't understand that I just don't want to worry them, right now with dad half sick and mama worrying over one thing and another."

When her voice broke he felt a brute. After all, it was her affair, really. He hadn't any people. No one but Nancy . . . his wife. . . who knew the world knew it or not.

"Nancy, guess you're the boss. Make up?"

He came and took her in his arms, rumpling her bright hair, holding her closer . . . closer. Nancy relaxed with a soft little sigh. Her head was on his shoulder, her cheek next to his. She shut her eyes and the ugly hotel room disappeared . . . so did her half-written letter to mama. "I do love you, I do," she whispered. "Nothing matters. . . but us. . ."

Really Living

Nothing matters . . . but us. . . She really felt that way when Roger's arms were about her, his brown cheek against hers. Hadn't she run off and married him without even a trousseau, and not knowing or caring where they were going, or how they were going to live? Nothing mattered, not the hot, dusty ride out of the valley, nor the Bonanza Hotel with its splattered wall paper and squeaky bed. Nothing as real as Roger. . . Roger and love. It was . . . she was living, really living for the first time in her life, and all the other things, the things that used to matter so much were half-forgotten dreams.

"If anyone had told me that I'd ever start off on a wedding trip with two suitcases full of dirty clothes and four pairs of scuffed shoes, I'd have said they were CRAZY!" she told Roger on that first giddy, care-free day.

"Why, you're all right. You look beautiful to me," he said, soberly. He meant it, poor dear. Nancy could hardly keep from kissing him riding through the main street in Reno in his dusty, weather-beaten car. Her heart beat high. She thought of mama . . . how surprised she'd be. . . Louise, too, would never believe she'd have the courage to go through with it. . . neither would the girls, May Belle, Craig and the others. . . poor make-shifts they were getting. . . imitation love. . . "Nobody can say I'm not a good sport!" she thought, with a funny little glow of pride. For so long she had thought of herself as spoiled and selfish and gloried in it. But now she was different, everything was different. . . when she was with Roger.

such a course which purely local wishes can not override. Within the past week the joint Minnesota-Wisconsin Interim Pollution Committee, appointed by the legislatures of the two states several years ago, submitted its report. The committee's findings are not novel. It reports practically to the same effect as every other body has done after study of Mississippi pollution, that a condition has been created by the Twin City Metropolitan area which demands correction through construction of a modern sewage disposal system.

The special importance of the report consists in the fact that it introduces a new factor into the sewage question. This new element is the right of Wisconsin to protection against a nuisance created within Minnesota but extending along the river which forms a boundary between the two states. A legal study of similar cases, appearing in the current United States Law Review, suggests the probability that if Minnesota fails to stop the pollution of the Mississippi in this area, a suit might be brought by Wisconsin before the United States Supreme Court to compel it to do so.

Even if the intolerable condition of the river, soon to be aggravated by completion of the Hastings dam, were not reason enough for prompt action, there would also be the motive of acting without waiting to be forced after the unnecessary expense and odium of a court action. The Twin Cities and South St. Paul, the state of Minnesota and the state of Wisconsin are all interested in this question. If the three cities do not act of their own volition, the state of Minnesota will force them to do so. And if Minnesota does not exact this compulsion, then it may be taken as a strong probability that the United States Supreme Court, on motion of Wisconsin, will supply the necessary strong arm.

Sewage disposal is an inescapable duty. Representative Scallon has issued a justifiable ultimatum.

Two Boys Arrested After Pirate Raid
on Northeast Chicken
Coop

CHICKENS HID IN DITCH

Were to Have Been Consumed in
Shack on Banks of
Mississippi

An episode of Huckleberry Finn days was thwarted by the apprehension of two Northeast Brainerd boys early Sunday who contrived to loot a chicken coop to replenish the larder of a shack they constructed on the banks of the Mississippi river north of Brainerd.

One of the boys was today fined $25 in municipal court after he pleaded guilty to petit larceny while his partner was turned over to juvenile court, he being only 17 years old. The boy was unable to raise the fine and was willing to serve 20 days in the city jail.

Officers Erick Graff and H. B. Sande spoiled the pirate feed the boys were to have. They caught the boys after they had hid their loot three chickens in a ditch in Northeast Brainerd.

The two were taken for questioning to police headquarters when the officers found chicken feathers and blood in the back of the truck they used.

The raid on the chicken coop of Andrew Christianson, 502 E. street N. E. was blamed to the boys. They admitted their parts this morning.

The police received a complaint at 3 a. m. Sunday that a truck was running around Northeast Brainerd without lights. The investigation brought about the boys' arrests.

Department Receives Alarm and Out
on Street in 45 Seconds
This Morning

Forty five seconds after a fire alarm was received at the fire station this morning the truck was passing through the doors and out on the street.

And one of the firemen was in bed when the alarm came in. He was dressing on the fire truck as it shot around the corner of Fifth and Laurel streets.

The alarm which came in at 10 a. m. was the fourth to be answered since Sunday morning.

Fires extinguished by the department were the following:

11:15 a. m. Sunday—Roof fire at the home of Roy Spellmeyer, 1416 Oak street, caused by sparks from the chimney, $150 damage.

Roof fire at the home of James Alderman, 305 Juniper street Sunday afternoon, sparks from the chimney, damage $5.

House fire at the home of Harold Bench, 1209 Fourth avenue at 8:12 p. m. Sunday, $690 damage.

Fire this morning under the reservoir of the kitchen range at the home of Andrew Derksen, 1315 Maple street, probably started in the woodbox. Damage, $75.

The fire in the Beach home involved most of the house. It was probably caused from a defective chimney. Chief Frank Fuller found the doorway blocked by a crumbled chimney. He was forced to clear a path before he could gain entry into the burning building.

Mr. and Mrs. Beach and their child were visiting friends when the fire broke out in the one story frame building. The flames practically caused an entire loss to the interior furnishings. Friends took them in for the Beach family as the household equipment was without insurance and Mr. Beach is out of employment.

The building is owned by George Kuehmichel.

LAKES ARE ASSURED PROPER STOCKING

Surber Promises Assistance in securing
Distribution of Pike
Fry Here

T. Surber, Superintendent of Fish
Propagation of the State Game and

Fish Department assured A. A. Weideman, Brainerd, today by letter that this county would receive this spring an equitable distribution of pike fry.

Mr. Weideman will appeal to the state for four million pike fry this spring.

Those desiring fry are requested to call the Conklin Motor Co. and to leave their requisitions there.

In respect to planting Mr. Surber suggested the following:

"Will you please insist on having the pike fry taken well out from shore in row boats or launches and planted in deep waters. I am firmly convinced that this has not always been done and in many cases this has accounted for the apparent lack of favorable results from plants made in former years."

Unless this is complied with the fry are destroyed by shiner minnows eating them near shore.

COPS SPOIL FEED IN RIVER SHACK

Two Boys Arrested After Pirate Raid
on Northeast Chicken
Coop

CHICKENS HID IN DITCH

Were to Have Been Consumed in
Shack on Banks of
Mississippi

An episode of Huckleberry Finn days was thwarted by the apprehension of two Northeast Brainerd boys early Sunday who contrived to loot a chicken coop to replenish the larder of a shack they constructed on the banks of the Mississippi river north of Brainerd.

One of the boys was today fined $25 in municipal court after he pleaded guilty to petit larceny while his partner was turned over to juvenile court, he being only 17 years old. The boy was unable to raise the fine and was willing to serve 20 days in the city jail.

Officers Erick Graff and H. B. Sanders spooled the pirate feed the boys were to have. They caught the boys after they had hid their loot three chickens in a ditch in Northeast Brainerd.

The two were taken for questioning to police headquarters when the officers found chicken feathers and blood in the back of the truck they used.

The raid on the chicken coop of Andrew Christianson, 502 E street N. E. was blamed to the boys. They admitted their parts this morning.

The police received a complaint at 3 a. m. Sunday that a truck was running around Northeast Brainerd without lights. The investigation brought about the boys' arrests.

FIREMEN FIGHT 4 BLAZES IN 24 HOURS

DAMAGES TOTAL $845

Department Receives Alarm and Out
on Street in 45 Seconds
This Morning

Forty five seconds after a fire alarm was received at the fire station this morning the truck was passing through the doors and out on the street.

And one of the firemen was in bed when the alarm came in. He was dressing on the fire truck as it shot around the corner of Fifth and Laurel streets.

The alarm which came in at 10 a. m. was the fourth to be answered since Sunday morning.

Fires extinguished by the department were the following:

11:15 a. m. Sunday—Roof fire at the home of Roy Spellmeyer, 1416 Oak street, caused by sparks from the chimney, $150 damage.

Roof fire at the home of James Alderman, 305 Juniper street Sunday afternoon, sparks from the chimney, damage $5.

House fire at the home of Harold Beach, 1209 Fourth avenue at 8:12 p. m. Sunday, $600 damage.

Fire this morning under the reservoir of the kitchen range at the home of Andrew Derksen, 1315 Maple street, probably started in the woodbox. Damage, $75.

The fire in the Beach home involved most of the house. It was probably caused from a defective chimney. Chief Frank Fuller found the doorway blocked by a crumbled chimney. He was forced to clear a path before he could gain entry into the burning building.

Mr. and Mrs. Beach and their child were visiting friends when the fire broke out in the one story frame building. The flames practically caused an entire loss to the interior furnishings. Friends took them in for the Beach family as the household equipment was without insurance and Mr. Beach is out of employment.

The building is owned by George Kuehmichel.

Surber Promises Assistance in securing
Distribution of Pike
Fry Here

T. Surber, Superintendent of Fish
Propagation of the State Game and

Fish Department assured A. A. Weideman, Brainerd, today by letter that this county would receive this spring an equitable distribution of pike fry.

Mr. Weideman will appeal to the state for four million pike fry this spring.

Those desiring fry are requested to call the Conklin Motor Co. and to leave their requisitions there.

In respect to planting Mr. Surber suggested the following:

"Will you please insist on having the pike fry taken well out from shore in row boats or launches and planted in deep waters. I am firmly convinced that this has not always been done and in many cases this has accounted for the apparent lack of favorable results from plants made in former years."

Unless this is complied with the fry are destroyed by shiner minnows eating them near shore.

Although 90 per cent of the member creameries of the Land O' Lakes corporation are in Minnesota, attendance will be drawn from the Northwest in general and from states more distant where member creameries are located, creamery officials said. Among the states having member creameries are Wisconsin, North and South Dakota, Michigan, and even as far south as Missouri and Oklahoma.

Who's Who and What's What at Lincoln Building

Many short, patriotic exercises have been held throughout the building the past month. Miss Drexler's music class in second grade has the project of composing words and music suited to each month. Last month they composed these words and music for the lines:

How did George cut down his cherry tree?
With his hatchet he chopped one, two, three.

Have you noticed from what part of our city these pupils are?

The most studious Senior.
The boy pianist at the Musical club program.

Many good little dancers at that program.
The boy who took first place in oratory Monday night.

The girl who gave "Part Panther" so well.

There is great excitement at recesses. We are looking ahead to Field Day and how we're practicing!
Don't forget the Dad's night at P. T. A. March 10. Which room is going to have the most daisies?

You ought to see Miss Germaine's little beginners when they get Readers today. It's a big day for they've only been in school since January 20. Another exciting moment each day is when they tell whether they drank milk this morning or not. A card board bottle for each shows how much they've drank and 20 credits mean a gold star on the bottle.

JONES TO MAKE PICTURES ON 'HOW TO PLAY GOLF'

IN MOVIES TO KEEP HIS COUN- TRYMEN OUT OF BUNK- ERS

WILL MAKE 12 SHORT PICTURES FOR WARNER BROTHERS

Hollywood, Cal., March 2. — (UP) — Robert Tyre Jones, the world's premier golfer, was in Hollywood today ready to do what he can through the movies to keep his countrymen out of the bunkers and sand traps next summer.

Jones arrived yesterday to make 12 short pictures for Warner Brothers on the subject "How I Play Golf."

The studio plans to complete the series within six weeks and the golfers and would-be golfers of the country can have the Jones' instruction for the price of a theatre ticket just about the time the golf season of 1931 starts in earnest in the snow belt.

Jones was sure of one thing, that there will be no romantic element in his pictures.

He shifted nervously when a reporter asked him if he desired his leading lady to come from the blonde, brunette or red-headed groups of film beauties.

"They couldn't get me to play in one of those love pictures," he said. "I'm stick to something I know a little about."

NEW YORK ATHLETIC COMMIS- SION STARTS INVESTIGA- TION TUESDAY

New York, March 2. — (UP) — Everyone connected with the recent Billy Petrolle-King Tut bout, from the principals and matchmaker Tom McCardle to the lowliest of towel slingers and water boys, has been summoned to report at the New York Athletic Commission's investigation Tuesday.

Although it appears that Chicago and Minneapolis gamblers made a huge betting coup in connection with the fight Commissioner William Muldoon and John Phelan agree with writers who declare they could see nothing wrong with the ring performance of the two fighters and a general "whitewash" is expected.

St. Paul, Minn., March 2. — (UP) — The Minnesota State Boxing Commission will await the action against King-Tut and Billy Petrolle, it was announced.

Dr. Andrew W. Sivertson, chairman said the Minnesota commission will not meet until after the New York body makes known its decision on whether Petrolle's knockout victory over Tut Friday night was "framed."

Referendum on Prohibition Considered by the House March 12

St. Paul, Minn., March 2. — (UP) — The house temperance committee today set March 12 as the date for consideration in the house of a resolution calling for a state-wide referendum on prohibition in the 1932 general election.

The temperance committee took no action on the bill and it will come up for consideration without recommendation.

Rep. John I. Norton of Minneapolis, former attorney for the Minnesota Anti-Saloon League and a member of the committee, urged that the bill be sent to the house.

"Such a referendum would carry no more weight than a straw vote," Norton said, "but it would serve as a means of placing members of the legislature on record as to their attitude toward prohibition."

Abe Lincoln—Query, What's He Playing?

Historical interest to some people fades even in the case of the country's great liberator of slaves.

One lady inquired today what the show at the Paramount tomorrow is. She was informed "Abe Lincoln."

"The reply came back — 'What's he playing in?'"

For those whose history is dull let it be known that "Abraham Lincoln" is the name of the picture and it revolves around the life of the great emancipator who brought freedom to the slaves. Walter Houston plays the title role. The picture shows two days, Tuesday and Wednesday with a special students matinee Tuesday at 4 p. m.

Piles All Gone

Without Salves or Cutting
Itching, bleeding, protruding piles go quickly and don't come back, if you remove the cause. Bad blood circulation in the hemorrhoidal veins causes piles by making the affected parts weak, flabby, almost dead. Salves and cutting fail because only an internal medicine can actually correct these conditions. Dr. J. S. Leonard discovered a real internal Pile remedy. LAND O' LAKES HOLD MEETING MARCH 11-13

A general meeting of the Land O' Lakes Creameries, Incorporated, which will be attended by persons interested in creamery-dairy activities will be conducted in Minneapolis, March 11 to 13.

Although 90 per cent of the member creameries of the Land O' Lakes corporation are in Minnesota, attendance will be drawn from the Northwest in general and from states more distant where member creameries are located, creamery officials said. Among the states having member creameries are Wisconsin, North and South Dakota, Michigan, and even as far south as Missouri and Oklahoma.

Reduced round trip railroad fares have been authorized, subject to minimum attendance requirements. They will be in effect on the Northern Pacific railway in Minnesota, North Dakota, Manitoba and Wisconsin from March 7 to 13, return limit March 17. The meeting will be held at the Land O' Lakes main plant, 2201 Kennedy Avenue Northeast, Minneapolis.

Who's Who and What's What at Lincoln Building

Many short, patriotic exercises have been held throughout the building the past month. Miss Drexler's music class in second grade has the project of composing words and music suited to each month. Last month they composed these words and music for the lines:

How did George cut down his cherry tree?
With his hatchet he chopped one, two, three.

Have you noticed from what part of our city these pupils are?

The most studious Senior.
The boy pianist at the Musical club program.

Many good little dancers at that program.

The boy who took first place in oratory Monday night.

The girl who gave "Part Panther" so well.

There is great excitement at recesses. We are looking ahead to Field Day and how we're practising!

Don't forget the Dad's night at P. T. A. March 10. Which room is going to have the most dads out?

You ought to see Miss Germaine's little beginners when they get Readers today. It's a big day for they've only been in school since January 20.

Another exciting moment each day is when they tell whether they drank milk this morning or not. A card board bottle for each shows how much they've drank and 20 credits mean a gold star on the bottle.

JONES TO MAKE PICTURES ON 'HOW TO PLAY GOLF'

IN MOVIES TO KEEP HIS COUN- TRYMEN OUT OF BUNK- ERS

WILL MAKE 12 SHORT PICTURES FOR WARNER BROTHERS

Hollywood, Cal., March 2. — (UP) — Robert Tyre Jones, the world's premier golfer, was in Hollywood today ready to do what he can through the movies to keep his countrymen out of the bunkers and sand traps next summer.

Jones arrived yesterday to make 12 short pictures for Warner Brothers on the subject "How I Play Golf."

The studio plans to complete the series within six weeks and the golfer and would-be golfers of the country can have the Jones' instruction for the price of a theatre ticket just about the time the golf season of 1931 starts in earnest in the snow belt.

Jones was sure of one thing, that there will be no romantic element in his pictures.

He shifted nervously when a reporter asked him if he desired his leading lady to come from the blonde, brunette or red-headed groups of film beauties.

"They couldn't get me to play in one of those love pictures," he said. "I'm to stick to something I know a little about."

Referendum on Prohibition Considered by the House March 12

St. Paul, Minn., March 2. — (UP) — The house temperance committee today set March 12 as the date for consideration in the house of a resolution calling for a state-wide referendum on prohibition in the 1932 general election.

The temperance committee took no action on the bill and it will come up for consideration without recommendation.

Rep. John I. Norton of Minneapolis, former attorney for the Minnesota Anti-Saloon League and a member of the committee, urged that the bill be sent to the house.

"Such a referendum would carry no more weight than a straw vote," Norton said, "but it would serve as a means of placing members of the legislature on record as to their attitude toward prohibition."

Abe Lincoln—Query, What's He Playing?

Historical interest to some people fades even in the case of the country's great liberator of slaves.

One lady inquired today what the show at the Paramount tomorrow is. She was informed "Abe Lincoln."

The reply came back — "What's he playing in."

For those whose history is dull let it be known that "Abraham Lincoln" is the name of the picture and it revolves around the life of the great emancipator who brought freedom to the slaves. Walter Houston plays the title role. The picture shows two days, Tuesday and Wednesday with a special students matinee Tuesday at 4 p. m.
